“The Power of 2”: Dr. Robert H. Sorosky and Dr. Edward H. Park have teamed up to become the most unique team of plastic surgeons in the Inland Empire. Dr. Sorosky is an expert facial cosmetic surgeon with over 30 years of experience, and Dr. Park is an experienced plastic and reconstructive surgeon with an extensive training background at Stanford Medical Center. The merging of these two physician’s talents has led to a dynamic and unique partnership. “We build upon each other’s strengths. Because of the commonality between facial plastic surgery and general plastic surgery, this collaboration allows us to produce superior results with our patients,” says Dr. Sorosky.

With their unique backgrounds, they are able to combine their ideas and efforts to come up with novel techniques. Some of their innovative procedures include scarless, as well as non-surgical rhinoplasties, breast lifts combined with “mommy makeovers,” and the revolutionary “natural uplift”—a unique facelift procedure with minimal recovery. Additionally, Dr. Park is one of the few plastic surgeons who continues to perform reconstructive surgery for cancer patients.

This team of surgeons prides themselves in their compassionate staff, all of whom are licensed and certified, as well as their fully accredited surgery center. Most of all, their passion is with their patients, and building a trusting relationship with them.
